

Your 24-Fold House Score Spectrum

What's This?

It's an evaluation of your 12 houses using a simple but detailed and exacting technique explained in the 14th century Sanskrit astrology text, Phaladeepika. I'll explain the mechanics of the technique at the end of the report. For now, you are most likely much more interested in what it all means!

We have 24 conditions ("yogas"), two for each house: one positive and one negative. By assessing where you lie on the spectrum between those two conditions, you can understand how much fortune or misfortune you have with that house.

How to Get More Details

In the next section I will quote descriptions of the positive and negative interpretations for each house. These are, by design, extremely polarized stereotypes. Don't be startled! Only a person scoring 100% positive or negative might have exactly the results literally as described.

To read this report effectively, always reference your personal positive and negative score for each house. The closer it is to 100%, the more literally and thoroughly the described results will be true in your life. Conversely, the closer it is to 0% the less you will see any of the described things in your life. In fact, as scores dip towards zero the described conditions become conspicuous by their absence in your life. In other words the opposite comes to pass!
